

As the school year is winding down, and seniors are nearing the end of their high school career, The Forum wanted to ask seniors what their favorite trends were throughout their four years at Skyline High School.

The Forum received many entries on some popular trends. The past two years, scrunchies have made a comeback from the nineties. Elle Uselman and Caroline Jenkins both agree that these cute hair accessories are a must have. Another popular accessory, according to Chloe Kluever, were Kendra Scott necklaces. The jewelry piece is simple and elegant. Kluever also mentioned comfys. Comfys were a great way to come to school this year in a blanket- type sweatshirt.

A popular senior tradition in the past years for the ladies has been to dress up as their dads for Halloween. Elizabeth Assante and Katelyn Jancola both commented on how they loved this trend. Another popular thing amongst the class of 2020 was Tik Tok: a fun social media platform where students can make funny videos to music. Ellie Holliday informed The Forum about this trend.

Bringing it back to freshman and sophomore year, students reminded the class of 2020 about some crazes. Gargi Pradhan mentioned Pokemon Go: an app where Pokemon fans and the whole Sammamish Plateau got together in 2016 to find and “capture” Pokemon characters on their smartphones. Kyle Meyer hyped up the whip and nae nae dance. Along with that, Rachel Willson brought up the classic water bottle flip where one has to flip a water bottle and have it land right side up. Teachers must remember that trend- students could not stop flipping bottles in class!

More fashion trends included black yoga pants, fuzzy socks, and birkenstocks, which completed the look. Zoe Czaja brought up this fun and cozy fashion statement. These trends would not be complete if Jack Randall did not mention Crocs. Crocs made a comeback during the past four years. Students love their colorful options and comfort during the seemingly long school day.

Some students also informed The forum about some trends not having to do with fashion or activities, but things that brought Skyline together. Cole Fontenelle said that a trend was, “beating Eastlake and Issaquah [high school] in baseball”. Skyline sports teams do a great job bringing the school together. Oscar Rockwell reminded The Forum of when there was a bird that lived in the upper commons for almost a month. That was a funny experience and “trend” that Skyline students will never forget.

The last trend, and was a hard one, was the COVID19 outbreak, mentioned by Susheel Cheeti. Although this is not the best trend, it is apparent that this needed to be mentioned. Skyline can do this, and like principle Hennig says, “Skyline loves you”. That is the best trend of them all!

This is a Kendra Scott Necklace

Photo Courtesy of Kendra Scott

These are scrunchies

Photo Courtesy of Amazon